STEWARDSHIP CORNER

Love Your Neighbor

In today's Gospel Jesus said: "You shall love your neighbor as yourself." It was not meant to be a suggestion or an option. He didn't say we shall love our neighbor when it fits into our day or suits our schedule, or after we've completed our various recreations. It is a requirement for Christians; to exercise good stewardship over the neighbors entrusted to us by God. It is a requirement often ignored when we put up barriers of anger, fear, or intolerance for a neighbor. How can we look beyond our own personal difficulties to see what we can do to love the person who lives next door, works next to us, or who sits next to us in the church pew?

Fr. Tomasz's Weekly Reflection

There is one virtue without which human life cannot be imagined: a virtue that helps soften hearts, aids development of great ideas, pushes people to heroic deeds; a virtue that is the drive behind every human action; a virtue that unites people and nations. We call this virtue: Love.

When Christ, asked by the scribe about the greatest commandment, responds referring to the commandment of Love of God and one's neighbor, He means to say that without this commandment it is impossible to imagine human life.

But what is Love anyways? The most difficult question to answer. One could say that Christ responded to it not so much with words as with his whole life. That is why He could say at the end of his life that no one has greater love than this, to lay down one's life for one's friends.

Why do we have a duty to Love? Because God loved us first. Out of Love for us, He created the world and gave it to us to rule over. He made us in his image and likeness, and elevated us above all creatures. He has endowed us with the greatest gift: his divine friendship.

But we continuously underappreciate this gift. Through sin, we break that friendship and depart from God. But thankfully, God does not depart from us. For the sake of our salvation and eternal happiness, God promised to send us a Redeemer. And then He constantly announced his coming through the patriarchs, prophets and other messengers. And when finally the promised Savior came, He testified with his word and deed to God's love for man.

Today we must ask ourselves these questions: what do we actually Love, what do we carry in the inner recesses of our hearts? What are our innermost desires and thoughts? St. Paul, in his hymn of Love, instructs that If I speak in human and angelic tongues...and if I have the gift of prophecy and comprehend all mysteries and all knowledge; if I have all faith so as to move mountains but do not have love, I am nothing. Only Love matters, but it matters in a long term, as St. Paul concludes his hymn by stating that Faith, Hope, Love remain, these three; but the greatest of these is Love. No more explanation needed.

One thing is needed however, in a response to God's Love: we need to live the life of Love. Love needs to be introduced into all the aspects of our lives. The scribe in today's Gospel learned from Jesus not only that Love is the most important commandment, but also that it should cover everything: from our relationship with God, through our healthy self-Love, to the Love of our neighbor. After all Love...is worth more than all burnt offerings and sacrifices.
