STEWARDSHIP CORNER

The Spirit Draws Us Out of Our Comfort Zones

In today's first reading we encounter the Holy Spirit who at Pentecost came rushing in over Jesus' followers like a powerful wind. It must have been a frightening experience for them. But their great acts of prophetic witness began when the Spirit drew them out of their "comfort zones." Jesus said the Holy Spirit, like the wind, blows where it wills; into the lives of good stewards, empowering them to perform wondrous acts of healing, reconciliation and evangelization; encouraging them to proclaim the Gospel with boldness and confidence. All of that is a little beyond the comfort zone where most of us live our lives. This week, reflect on how the Holy Spirit may be calling you out of your personal comfort zone.

Fr. Tomasz's Weekly Reflection

Jesus said of the Holy Spirit that He would remind the Apostles of all His words when He came. Therefore, it must be said that the Word of God was not originally passed on in the form of a scripture: it wasn't written; it was memorized and then passed on by word of mouth, as a form of an experience shared between the one who proclaimed it with the one who received it. In the Book of Exodus, Moses makes an interesting call to the Israelites, the call to place the Words of God in front of their eyes, as a reminder. Till this day, Orthodox Jews are faithful to this call by wearing on their foreheads a container, in which are hidden the words credited to God himself.

The memory of what God has done for us, how He saved us from the bondage to sin, from death and the forces of darkness, is what strengthens us in doing good. We should often pray in gratitude, to remind ourselves of the events in our lives that paved for us the way out of Egypt of sin, ignorance, unbelief and disordered attachments. We need to retell the story how Jesus reached out to us and lifted us from another fall. How He freed us from our relapsing addictions. Each Israelite knew by heart their genealogy and the history of their nation. They knew it all happened thanks to divine intervention. Could we write the story of our lives to make it fit the narrative of the Bible? Do we even remember the events, words, emotions, experiences, people, and did we ever perceive the signs of God's supernatural presence that made our lives what they are?

In our religious practices there is not enough of the reflection in general, but especially on what has been written in the Sacred Scripture, in the Word of God. I experienced that in the seminary, when it was easy for most of us to say the Rosary, pray the Liturgy of the Hours, or even read the liturgical texts. But there wasn't enough, or sometimes at all, serious thought or consideration on what it actually means in the context of one's life. It hit me when I read this verse from Psalm 49: In his prime, man does not understand. He is like the beasts—they perish. The thoughtless reciting of texts, even the most sacred ones, does not change anything in us, because they are not magical. Those texts are enlivening, and need to be read and meditated on in the context of the life of the reader, with the assistance of the Holy Spirit. Reading Jesus' words is not just about an exercise of diction or a recitation, but it needs to be a meditation or an interior reflection on one's own life.

If we are to ask for the coming of the Holy Spirit to us today, let us ask Him to enkindle in us the desire to see our lives as a part of the History of Salvation, recorded sometimes with the smallest details, that only us and God know. Nothing is meaningless as we make the effort on our way to salvation. To see the world and life in a way that is seen by God requires a memory enlightened by the Holy Spirit. He prevents us from succumbing to a spiritual dementia. Thanks to Him, we also have a vision of what's forthcoming, because the memory of the past is the root of a future.

Meet Our New Parochial Vicar Fr. Donatian Kaigoma

Fr. Donatian Kaigoma will be joining St. Peter's as our Parochial Vicar in July. Fr. Donatian is originally from the Diocese of Geita, Tanzania.

Currently he serves as the Chaplain for the Annunciation Heights Summer Camp near Estes Park, helping campers, retreatants, and adult leaders to encounter Jesus Christ.

Fr. Donatian enjoys long-distance hiking, music, and traveling. His favorite Bible story is the Washing of the Disciples' Feet in John's Gospel. We can't wait for Fr. Donatian to join us here at St. Peter's soon!
