Fr. Tomasz's Weekly Reflection

Today's readings continue the invitation to prayer – but with a deeper challenge: What are we praying for? Are our petitions aligned with the heart of God, or are they shaped by the fleeting desires of the world? Scripture reminds us that not all prayers are equal – not because God is selective, but because we are often distracted. We are called to lift our eyes beyond the temporary and pray for what endures.

The voice of Ecclesiastes is sobering: "Vanity of vanities! All things are vanity." The author laments the toil and anxiety of life under the sun, especially when all that is gained must be left behind. It's a reminder that even our most diligent efforts, if disconnected from eternal purpose, leave us restless. If our prayers are only for success, comfort, or control, we risk chasing wind. God is not indifferent to our needs – but He invites us to seek more than what fades.

In the Gospel, a man asks Jesus to settle a financial dispute. But Jesus refuses to be drawn into the drama of possessions. Instead, He tells a parable of a rich man who stores up wealth, only to die that very night. "This night your life will be demanded of you." The tragedy is not the man's wealth, but his isolation – his failure to be "rich in what matters to God." His prayer, if he had one, was likely centered on barns and grain, not on gratitude or generosity. Jesus is urging us to examine our hearts: Are we praying for what will last beyond this life?

Saint Paul offers the antidote: "Seek what is above, where Christ is." He calls us to put to death earthly desires – greed, impurity, falsehood – and to clothe ourselves in the new self, renewed in the image of the Creator. This is not a rejection of the world, but a reorientation. Our prayers should reflect this transformation. Instead of asking only for what we want, we begin to ask for what God wants – for holiness, for wisdom, for love that builds up the Body of Christ.

So how do we pray rightly? We begin by asking God to shape our desires. We pray for clarity, for detachment, for the grace to see what truly matters. We pray for the poor, the lonely, the lost. We pray for courage to forgive, for strength to serve, for humility to listen. We pray not just for blessings, but for the ability to be a blessing. And yes, we can pray for the same things again and again – because God never tires of hearing us. But let us make sure that what we ask for is worthy of the One to whom we pray.

Prayer is not a transaction – it is a relationship. And in that relationship, God invites us to lift our eyes, to seek what is above, to be rich in what matters to Him. Let us not waste our breath on what cannot save. Let us pray for what endures: faith, hope, love, and the grace to live each day in light of eternity.

STEWARDSHIP CORNER

In today's Gospel, Jesus offers a warning to those who pursue leisure and pleasure as their goal in life without concern for the poor and less fortunate. He tells the parable of the wealthy landowner who, upon yielding an exceptionally profitable harvest one year, determines that he will live the rest of his days in relaxation; to eat, drink and be merry. God calls the miser a "fool" and lets him know that his greed and self-indulgence will not bring him the security he seeks. Good stewards acknowledge that the money and possessions entrusted to them are to be used to further the mission of Jesus Christ. This week let us reflect on our own daily consumption habits. Do we spend money on articles that make us better ambassadors of Christ? Does our personal lifestyle bring "good news to the poor" (Luke 4:18)?

The Rich Farmer Word-Find

"Take care to guard against all greed, for though one may be rich, one's life does NOT consist of POSSESSIONS." There was a rich man whose LANDS PRODUCED a BOUNTIFUL HARVEST. He asked himself, 'What shall I do, for I do not have SPACE to store my harvest?' And he said, 'This is what I shall do: I shall TEAR down my BARNs and build LARGER ones. There I shall store all my GRAIN and other GOODS and I shall SAY to MYSELF, "Now as for you, you have so MANY good things STORED up for many years, REST, EAT, DRINK, be MERRY!" But GOD said to him, 'You FOOL, this NIGHT your LIFE will be DEMANDED of you; and the THINGS you have PREPARED, to whom will they belong?'

Thus will it be for all who store up treasure for themselves but are not RICH in what matters to God.

The Protestant Reformation (Last Week)

Protestant vs Catholic Salvation and Justification

Modern Catholic History part 1 (Next Week)

What Protestants Believe

- Justification says that "God doesn't actually wipe away our sins. Our souls don't become spotless and holy in themselves. Instead, they remain corrupted, sinful, full of sin. God merely throws a cloak over them and treats them as if they were spotless, knowing all the while that they're not."
- Justification is a "purely legal declaration;" our souls don't actually transform or change. "If you 'accept Christ as your personal Lord and Savior,' then he declares you justified, though he doesn't really make you justified or sanctified. Your soul is in the same state as before, but you're eligible for heaven."

What the Church Teaches

- "Souls really are cleansed by an infusion of the supernatural life...We're still subject to temptations to sin; we still suffer the effects of Adam's fall in that sense [concupiscence] but God removes the guilt from our souls."
- "Our intellects are given the new power of faith, something they don't have at the merely natural level. Our wills are given the new powers of hope and charity, things also absent at the merely natural level."
- "There is a real transformation that occurs in justification and that is not just a change in legal status."
- Justification and sanctification (the process of being made holy) are both ongoing processes.

What Protestants Believe

- You can't lose your justification through sin. If you reject Christ, then you weren't saved in the first place.
- Sanctification (becoming holy) is important, but it doesn't affect your justification or therefore your salvation.

What the Church Teaches

- "If you sin grievously, then the supernatural life in your soul disappears, since it can't coexist with serious sin. You then cease to be justified...But you can become re-justified by having the supernatural life renewed in your soul, and you can do that by responding to the actual graces God sends you."
- If you lose supernatural life from mortal sin, you can't gain it back on your own; you need help from actual graces from God, like your conscience telling you to go to confession. The Sacrament then helps you to regain supernatural life.
- Our good works increase our sanctifying grace, which helps us to turn away from temptations. Our initial grace is a gift from God that we can't earn, but we can increase it through good works and prayers.

Eucharistic Miracle Spotlight

KRAKOW, POLAND 1345

In 1345 some thieves broke into a little church in the village of Wawal, near Krakow, and stole the monstrance containing consecrated Hosts.

When the thieves discovered that the monstrance was not made of real gold, they threw it and the Hosts into a muddy marsh. Searches for the monstrance were unsuccessful until nightfall, when mysterious lights emanated from the place where the monstrance had been dropped.

After 3 days of fasting and prayer, the bishop led a procession to the source of the lights, where they found the monstrance and all the Hosts intact.

A church called Corpus Christi was built in honor of the miracle, and the miracle is celebrated annually on the Solemnity of Corpus Christi.
