THE COMMEMORATION OF ALL THE FAITHFUL DEPARTED

“And this is the will of the one who sent me, that I should not lose anything of what he gave me, but that I should raise it on the last day. For this is the will of my Father, that everyone who sees the Son and believes in him may have eternal life, and I shall raise him up on the last day.” - Jn 6:39-40

Fr. Tomasz's Weekly Reflection

Life After Death

Today's readings speak to the deepest questions of the human heart, questions we often whisper in grief, or wrestle with in silence: What happens when we die? In the words of the Book of Wisdom: "The souls of the righteous are in the hand of God, and no torment shall touch them." This is not poetic comfort, it is divine truth. Death, though it appears final, is not the end. For those who die in friendship with God, even if imperfect, there is hope. Their souls are held, not lost, not wandering, not forgotten, but held in the hands of mercy.

For those who die in friendship with God, even if imperfect, there is hope.

Jesus echoes this in today's Gospel: "Whoever comes to me I will never cast out... and I will raise him up on the last day". This is the promise of resurrection. But it also implies a journey, a process. Not all who die are ready to stand face-to-face with the living God. And so, the Church teaches the reality of Purgatory: a place of purification, not punishment. A place where love burns away what is not yet love. Though the word "Purgatory" doesn't appear in Scripture, its truth does. In 2 Maccabees 12:45, prayers are offered for the dead "that they might be loosed from sin." Jesus speaks of forgiveness "in the age to come" in Matthew 12:32. And Paul, in 1 Corinthians 3:15, describes a soul being saved "as through fire." These are glimpses of a mercy that continues beyond the grave.

Not all who die are ready to stand face-to-face with the living God. And so, the Church teaches the reality of Purgatory: a place of purification, not punishment.

Now, what of those who die by suicide? This is a question that weighs heavily on many hearts. The Church teaches that suicide is a grave matter, but also recognizes that mental illness, deep suffering, and psychological distress can diminish personal responsibility. We do not presume to judge. Instead, we entrust them to the mercy of God, who sees the heart more clearly than we ever could. As Romans 5 reminds us: "While we were still sinners, Christ died for us". His mercy reaches even into the darkest places.

The Church teaches that suicide is a grave matter, but also recognizes that mental illness, deep suffering, and psychological distress can diminish personal responsibility.

Speaking of dark places. And where was Jesus during those three days in the tomb? We profess in the Creed: "He descended into hell." But this does not mean the hell of the damned. The Catechism explains that Jesus went to the realm of the dead, Sheol, to proclaim victory and liberate the righteous who had died before Him. He did not rest in death. He went searching for Adam, for Eve, for Abraham and Sarah. He went to gather the lost. Even in death, He was Savior.

Some may pass through fire. Some may enter directly into glory. But all who belong to Christ will be raised. Let us live, then, not in fear, but in hope.

And what will happen to us? We will die. We will be judged. And if we die in friendship with Christ, we will be held in the hands of God. Some may pass through fire. Some may enter directly into glory. But all who belong to Christ will be raised. Let us live, then, not in fear, but in hope. Let us pray for the dead, love the living, and entrust ourselves to the One who will never cast us out.

Bring pictures of your beloved dead to place on the table in the church for the month of November. Please put your name and phone number on the back of the picture.

Why Should We Pray for the Dead?

We pray for the dead because the souls in Purgatory depend on us to pray and make sacrifices on their behalf to help them to reach heaven.

STEWARDSHIP CORNER

In today's selected Gospel we envision a crowd following Jesus, seeking him. He invites them to embrace faith in himself and his Father in heaven and share in their eternal life. He comes right out and says that no one who comes will be rejected, reminding us that even those who feel estranged from God or the Church are welcomed. Good stewards know that everyone can be raised up if they accept the Father's will, and in turn, use the gifts God has given them to further Christ's work. This promise gives us hope. The stewardship question is: Are we true seekers of the Lord? Do we genuinely desire a relationship with Christ? Are we willing to follow him?

The souls of the JUST are in the hand of God, and no TORMENT shall TOUCH them. They seemed, in the VIEW of the FOOLISH, to be DEAD; and their PASSING AWAY was thought an AFFLICTION and their GOING forth from us, utter DESTRUCTION. But they are in PEACE. For if before MEN, indeed, they be PUNISHED, yet is their HOPE full of IMMORTALITY; CHASTISED a little, they shall be greatly BLESSED, because God TRIED them and found them WORTHY of himself. As GOLD in the FURNACE, he proved them, and as sacrificial OFFERINGS he TOOK them to himself.

Eucharistic Miracle Spotlight

BOIS-SEIGNEUR-ISAAC, BELGIUM, 1405

In 1405, just before Pentecost, a man named John of Huldenberg had three visions of Jesus covered with the wounds of his crucifixion. Jesus told John to go to find him in the Chapel of Isaac. Meanwhile, the parish priest, Father Peter Ost, also heard a voice telling him to offer Mass at the same chapel.

At the Mass, the priest unfolded a corporal and saw a fragment of a consecrated Host from a previous Mass. When he tried to lift the piece up to consume it, it stuck to the corporal and began to bleed. John of Huldenberg, who was present at the Mass, assured the priest that the miracle was of God.

For four days the Blood continued to flow onto the corporal, eventually staining it entirely. It then coagulated and dried up. The Bishop of Cambrai kept the corporal in his possession for two years, unable to remove the Blood from it. The Bishop opened an investigation and eventually allowed the corporal to be venerated as a relic.

The relic can still be viewed today, and every year on the Sunday following the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the faithful of Bois-Seigneur-Isaac gather to celebrate and remember the miracle.
