Fr. Tomasz's Weekly Reflection

The readings today confront us with a truth at the very heart of Catholic moral theology: we must be converted. Not merely adjusted, not mildly improved, but turned: away from the brokenness of our fallen nature and toward the life of the children of God.

Ezekiel tells us plainly: "When the wicked turns away from wickedness... he shall live." Conversion is not optional. It is the dividing line between death and life. God does not delight in the death of the sinner; He delights in the sinner turning. Moral theology begins here: the human person is made for God, but wounded by sin, and must be healed, elevated, and transformed.

Saint Paul echoes this in Philippians: "Have in you the same attitude that is in Christ Jesus." This is the goal of the moral life: to become like Christ. Not simply to behave better, but to be reshaped internally, our mind, heart, desires, choices, until Christ's own way of thinking and loving becomes ours. Moral theology is not about rule-keeping; it is about becoming someone new.

And then Jesus gives us the Gospel that makes the point unavoidable: the Parable of the Two Sons. One says "no" but goes. The other says "yes" but refuses. Jesus asks: "Which of the two did the father's will?" The answer is obvious, but the meaning is profound. The first son undergoes conversion. He turns. His initial refusal is not the end of his story. He allows truth to change him. He becomes obedient. The second son remains trapped in the illusion of goodness: words without action, appearance without transformation.

This is the drama of every human life. Original sin bends us inward, distorts our desires, weakens our will. We say "yes" with our lips but "no" with our hearts. We intend holiness but choose comfort. We admire virtue but avoid sacrifice. We need real, concrete, moral conversion. Catholic moral theology helps us understand this journey. It teaches that it is not about becoming "good citizens." It is about becoming saints. It is the map that guides us from the "no" of our fallen nature to the "yes" of a transformed heart.

Spiritual Adoption

I am 6 months old.

At 1 1/2 to 2 pounds and 12 inches long, I am twice as big as I was last month. I am sitting up most of the time to accommodate the final movement of all my internal organs. From 26 weeks, babies exhibit a whole range of typical baby behavior and moods, including scratching, smiling, crying, hiccupping, and sucking. Babies born prematurely at this time have a very good chance of surviving. Please don't forget to pray for my mother and me.

Salve Regina part 3

Our Life, Our Sweetness

"Just as the soul gives life to the body, so grace gives life to the soul. And so our Lady, obtaining grace for sinners through her intercession, brings back life to their souls."

"I hold it as certain, according to the common opinion today, that all the graces God gives to human beings pass through the hands of Mary. By the same token it is equally true that only through the hands of Mary can we hope for this crown of all grace — perseverance."

"In all our misfortunes, and especially in death, which is our greatest affliction here on earth, this good Lady and Mother is our life and our sweetness — our life during our exile, our sweetness in the last hour, securing for us a calm and happy death."

"How quickly the devils flee from the face of this Queen! If at the hour of death we have our Lady to protect us, we need fear nothing from all the rebel Angels of Hell."

"Mary will not refuse her comfort at death even if you have led a sinful life for a time, provided that, from this day on, you take care to lead a good life and serve this most gracious and benignant Lady. In your agony, and in the temptations to despair which the devil will send you, she will come and encourage you."

And Our Hope

St. Thomas says that we can place our hope in a person in two ways — as a principal cause and as a mediate cause. Thus those who expect something from a king put their trust in him as their sovereign, and in his ministers or his favorite as intercessors.

When the favor is granted, it comes really from the king, though the favorite is the intermediary. Hence the petitioners have a right to call the minister or favorite through whom they received it their "hope."

"Those who put their trust in Mary, who (being the Mother of God) is able to secure grace and eternal life for them, are truly blessed and acceptable to the heart of God. Surely He desires to see this greatest of His creatures honored, since she loved and honored Him in this world more than all human beings and angels together."

"God made the two great lights: the greater light to govern the day, and the lesser light to rule the night (Gn. 1: 16). Christ is the greater light to rule the just, and Mary is the lesser light to rule sinners."

-St Alphonsus Liguori, The Glories of Mary

Stewardship Corner

Saint Augustine, a doctor of the church, once wrote that he first, second, and third most important attitude in Christianity is humility. In today's second reading, Saint Paul is concerned with how we conduct ourselves in our community of faith. He urges us to let our conduct be worthy of the Gospel we say that we believe; and that it all begins with humility. He asks us to consider others better than ourselves, and to serve them by looking out for their best interest, not ours. Consider how Saint Paul's appeal to imitating Christ's humility can enhance your relationships.
